Become a teacher! It's now easier and more affordable than ever through Heritage University, a partner institution at South Seattle Community College's University Center.

Attend a free drop-in information session and learn about Heritage's Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree in Education (K-8), with Residency Certification and ESL Endorsement. Mickie Clise, chair of the Teacher Education Program, and Miguel Puente, director of Admissions, will be on hand to answer questions about admissions, tuition, careers, and scholarships.

Heritage University is reducing tuition for transfer students. You may be eligible if you already have an Associate of Arts (AA) or Direct Transfer (DTA) degree.

Classes begin in September 2009, and are held on the South Seattle Community College campus Saturdays and two evenings a week.

The typical teacher affects 3,000 students over the course of his or her career. The hours are long, but the rewards are long-lasting. If you are inspired to leave your mark on your community by helping others learn, Heritage University at South Seattle Community College is the place to start.
