For course revisions, the ASAS College Supplemental section asks several questions. If the revision entails a change of mode, either from on-campus to online or vice versa, CIC approved additional questions, in italics.

1. Explain the student demand for the course and potential enrollment. If the revision is a change of mode, either on-campus to online or vice versa, include in the explanation how the change will affect enrollment.

2. Explain why this course is being revised. If the revision is a change of mode, either on-campus to online or vice versa, include in the explanation the aspects of the course that lend themselves to the new mode. If the change is in addition to or entails the replacement of another mode, explain why this is being done and how it will benefit students.

3. What challenges, if any, do you foresee in offering this course? If the revision is a change of mode from on-campus to online, speak to the appropriateness of the software or learning system for the subject matter and student learning. Whom have you consulted about the change of mode (e.g., the elearning office, the TLC)? What support is there for students?
