Reality Learning at South Seattle Community College

Reality TV has made its way into the classroom with the South Seattle Community College Continuing Education Department's take on the popular show "The Apprentice," which stars Donald Trump, as a foundation for a dynamic and interactive discussion.

The first of five sessions of "The Apprentice: Leading Lessons" will begin on February 7. The sessions, all on Monday evenings, will continue into spring (February 28, March 21, April 11, and May 2). They will be held from 6:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the Executive Training Room in Olympic Hall

Topics will include: leadership principles, dos and don'ts, organizational systems, building an effective team, managing projects and people, and handling difficult people and situations.

This fun class will analyze and discuss what happens between the "Book Smarts" and "Street Smart" teams who began the third series on January 20 (and includes two apprentice-candidates from Seattle). Will you be able to guess who is going to hear those words "You're Fired"? Will you be able to determine who will be hired as "The Apprentice"?

LeeAnn Gibbs, corporate coach and trainer, will provide insights and a forum for discovering critical leadership attributes that can make you successful. The course is perfect for business leaders, principals, managers, or anyone interested in leadership or anyone who just wants to talk about "The Apprentice."

The course costs $39. Register at www.learnatsouth.org or call 764-5339.
