South Seattle Community College is offering a very special opportunity to watch and learn from world-class Pastry Chef Donald Wressell, head Pastry Chef for the San Francisco-based Guittard Chocolate Company. Chef Wressell will conduct a 2½ hour chocolate showpiece demonstration in which he will create a spectacular showpiece (pictured here), demonstrating steps and techniques along the way. The demonstration takes place Sunday, August 28 at the college. Limited seating is available and pre-registration is advised.

Chef Wressell's extensive experience includes work at numerous distinguished hotels. He will appear on the television's Food Network Challenge series and can also be seen in the fascinating documentaries about the Coupe du Monde and Pastry Team Championships.

Chef Wressell was named "Pastry Chef of the Year" by the Organizing Committee of the 2005 National Pastry Team Championships and has been honored at the White House for his work with the Pastry Team. His team recently won the 2011 National Pastry Team Championship and will represent the USA in the World Pastry Team Competition next year.

An Issaquah resident, he graduated from the Washington State Chef Association Culinary Program.

This event is sponsored by the Northwest Chocolatier's Guild, South Seattle Community College, and Guittard Chocolate Company.
