South Seattle Community College Offerings Keep You Busy

Are you itching to do something? South Seattle Community College's (SSCC) Continuing Education Department has something to keep either your hands or your feet busy this fall.

If your feet get to tapping whenever you hear music, then SSCC's Salsa dancing class might be for you. Come learn the steps of this popular dance style the way it is done by people of all ages in the smallest Latin towns to some of the most exciting nightclub scenes around the world. Classes are at the Delridge Community Center on Monday nights, 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., from Sept. 30 to Nov. 18. No partners are necessary and if you bring a friend, you both will get a five-dollar discount on the $70 fee.

If dancing is not your style, perhaps a hands-on interior design class might be more to your liking. If you are tired of those four white walls that you call home, this basic course can provide you with a broad background in color choices, furniture arrangement, carpet, walls and accessories. Classes are on SSCC's main campus on Monday nights, 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., from Sept. 23 to Oct. 28. The class fee is $79.

Interested parties can call SSCC's Continuing Education Department at (206) 764-5339 to sign up or for questions.
