Interim President Named at South Seattle Community College

SEATTLE – Seattle Community Colleges Chancellor Peter Ku today named Dr. Jill Wakefield as interim president at South Seattle Community College.

The appointment followed an announcement last night that South President Dr. David C. Mitchell has accepted the presidency of Olympic College effective July 1.

Wakefield has served as Vice President for Instruction at South Seattle Community College since 1995 and also has experience in several areas of the college, including service as an instructional dean and with the foundation and public information offices. “Jill is extremely knowledgeable about the college and the West Seattle community,” Ku told a campus gathering today. “I have worked with her for many years, and know she is dedicated to the success of the college and its students.”

Details about the presidential search process will be announced before the end of the month, Ku added.

The Seattle Community Colleges, which are the largest two-year system in the state of Washington, provide education and training to 50,000 students each year at North Seattle Community College, South Seattle Community College, Seattle Central Community College, the Seattle Vocational Institute and six specialized training centers. # # #
